A $500 prize is given to foster and disseminate research in the practice of workplace talent development. It will be presented to the applicant with the best doctoral dissertation for which a degree has been conferred between August 1, 2018, and September 30, 2019.

Application deadline: November 30, 2019

To learn more about submission details and criteria, visit www.td.org/students.

FACULTY AND TALENT DEVELOPMENT PROFESSIONALS

Get involved with the ATD Higher Education community! If you're a dean, professor, or talent development professional in a field related to HRD or organization development, ATD offers several volunteer opportunities.

As an ATD faculty or talent development adviser, you may choose to:

- Serve on a selection team: Become a selecting official for ATD's student scholarships or a proposal reviewer for the ATD International Conference & Exposition.
- Contribute content: Looking to be published? ATD is seeking authors to write articles and blogs and host webcasts unique to higher education faculty, students, and the talent development profession.
- Provide input on ATD Higher Education initiatives: Your input is valuable! Serve as an adviser on future initiatives. Email Higher Education Community Manager Erin Strider at estrider@td.org for more information or visit www.td.org/highered.

CHAPTER INVOLVEMENT

Joining your local ATD chapter is the first step in contributing to an active and vibrant community of talent development professionals. ATD chapters provide local networking and professional development opportunities for students, faculty, and talent development professionals across the United States.

Experience being a Power Member! Joining ATD and your local ATD chapter gives you the opportunity to connect with local, national, and international professionals. Power Membership offers members twice the support, twice the resources, and twice the networking than just one membership.

ATD membership provides the tools you need for success. Chapter membership applies those tools to your organization and community. When you have both, you are a Power Member!

Find your local chapter at www.td.org/chapterlocator.

THE ATD COMPETENCY MODEL

The ATD Competency Model defines the skills and knowledge required for talent development professionals to be successful now and in the future. It captures changes driven by digital, mobile, and social technology; demographic shifts; globalization; and economic forces.

Faculty: How are your students defining the latest competencies needed for success in the talent development industry? ATD offers resources for aligning your curriculum to The ATD Competency Model.

Learn more at www.td.org/model.

CERTIFICATION

Based on The ATD Competency Model, the Certified Professional in Learning and Performance (CPLP) credential provides talent development professionals with the ability to prove their worth to employers and to be confident in their knowledge of the field. Learn more at www.td.org/certification.

The Associate Professional in Talent Development (APTD) is the ATD Certification Institute's newest certification for talent development professionals who are in the early part of their careers or whose professional roles and aspirations are focused on a few areas of expertise. It may be a destination for some or a stepping stone to the CPLP for others. Learn more at www.td.org/aptd.
